

Stefanie Holzwarth, UN-Habitat

Stefanie Holzwarth is an Associate Specialist at the Urban Mobility Team at the United Nations Human Settlement Programme (UN-Habitat). She is trained in geography and urban planning and has been working on sustainable mobility projects for more than 6 years, providing technical advice, knowledge and advocacy to governments around the world. Previously she worked in an urban development project at GIZ. Stefanie is a passionate cyclist and regularly participates in Open Streets Activities or Critical Mass Events to create awareness of pedestrians' and cyclists' rights to shared urban roads.
